

THE CHILDREN'S POET.

Mr. Chairman, Dr. Riley, Children, Friends: It seems an intrusion for grown-up people to take part in these exercises, and I shall not violate the proprieties by trespassing long upon your time. This is Riley Day and the children are hosts; all the children belong to Riley, and Riley belongs to them. You have just heard him described as chief among the song birds; perhaps that explains his migration to Florida. Like the other song birds he divides his time between the north and the south in order that he may sing the year round.

I ask your attention while I speak two words, one personal and one as your representative. My children were brought up on Riley food, and I hereby acknowledge the family's indebtedness to him. My wife has whiled away many an evening hour reading his homely and wholesome rhymes to those who are to carry our blood down through the years to come. Our son—who knows how many pitfalls he might have stumbled into had he not been warned away by "The goblins will get you if you don't watch out?"—was especially fond of Dr. Riley's writings, so much so that when a few years ago the eminent author honored us with a set of his works, we inscribed on the fly leaf of the first volume, "with remained over to Wm. Jennings Bryan, Jr.," and the books will go from our library to his in recognition of his early attachment.

And now, Dr. Riley, a word from the audience to you. I do not know whom you had in mind when you immortalized the words, "Goodbye Jim, take care of yourself." If it was your father's parting advice, you have obeyed it to the letter; you have taken care of yourself by devoting yourself to others—the only real effective way. Your life has proven anew the truth of the proverb: There is a scattering that increases. You have made a success of life—such a success as few of our generation have achieved. Your name is not found in the list of our multi-millionaires, but you have secured what all their money can not buy—that "loving favor" which is rather to be chosen "than silver and gold."

The blue books do not record your name among the great legislators of the nation, but this need not disturb you, for you are entitled to the distinction embodied in the words, "Let me write the songs of a nation and I care not who make the laws."

You do not claim a place among the great warriors of the world, and yet you, the "Hero of the Nursery," are the commander-in-chief of a larger army than any general ever led and those who follow you know not the cruel clamor of war or the mingled miseries of the battle-field, but rather the joy of innocence and the laughter of youth.

You are not of the royal company of kings, and yet you reign with undisputed sway over the twilight hours. You have never aspired to the presidency of the United States, and yet without arousing the animosities of a campaign, you have won a victory nation-wide. I constitute myself the messenger of the masses to inform you that, at an election, where all could vote, you have been unanimously chosen to preside in the hearts of the children of America—chosen for life, and to live in memory forever after.

NO REBATE.
A beautiful young lady approached the ticket window of the Pennsylvania station and, in a voice like the rippling of a brook, asked:
"What is the fare to the fair?"
To which the agent replied: "Same as to the homely, madam!"—Ex.

HOW PROHIBITION WORKS IN A LARGE CITY.

(From the Kansas City Star.)
The world is watching Seattle to see how prohibition works in a large city. Seattle is the largest city that has ever had prohibition. It and the whole State of Washington became dry January 1 of this year.

The strongest single force that worked against prohibition in the State of Washington was the Times, the leading newspaper of Seattle. In its campaign against the passage of the prohibitory law it used all the familiar old arguments such as "Prohibition doesn't prohibit," that it would force down rents, that so much property used for saloons all at once made empty and nonproductive in one day would have a bad economic effect and so on.

Why He Fought Prohibition.
The editor of the Seattle Times, Maj. C. B. Blethen, the man who made the fight against prohibition, was at Cates house yesterday. He was asked how prohibition was working and if all his prophecies had come true. He said:

"My paper fought its damndest against prohibition. We fought it on economic grounds alone. We believed that in a great city with a population of upwards of 300,000 prohibition would be destructive; it would bring on economic disaster. We believed that under our system of licensing saloons we had the liquor traffic about as well controlled as it could be and we wanted to let it alone, and so we fought as hard as we could fight. But, in spite of all we could do against it, prohibition carried and it went into effect in Washington Jan. 1. We have had a month of it now."

Business Expanded Quickly.
"We already know that it is a great benefit, morally and from an economic standpoint. Its moral benefit has been tremendous. Seattle had 260 saloons and we had an average of 2,600 arrests a month for crimes and misdemeanors growing out of liquor drinking. In January we had only four hundred arrests and sixty of these were made January 1 and were the results of hangovers from the old year. That in itself is enough to convince any man with a conscience that prohibition is necessary. There can be no true economy in anything that is immoral."

"And on top of that great moral result, we have these economic facts: In the first three weeks in January the savings deposits in the banks in Seattle increased 15 per cent. There was not a grocery store in Seattle that did not show an increase of business in January greater than ever known in any month before in all the history of the city, except in holiday time. In all the large grocery stores the increase was immense. In addition to this, every dry goods store in Seattle, except one, and that one I have no figures from, had a wonderful increase in business. Each store reported the largest business ever done in one month, except in holiday time."

The Women and Children Profit.
"I wished to know in what class of goods the sales increased so greatly, and so I sent to all the grocery and dry goods stores to find that out. And to me it is a pitiful thing, and it makes me sorry that we did not have prohibition long ago—that the increase in sales in the dry goods stores was in wearing apparel of women and children, and in the grocery stores the increase was made up chiefly of fruits and fancy groceries. This proves that it is the women and children who benefit greatest from prohibition. Money that went formerly over the bar for whiskey is now being spent for clothing for the women and children, and in better food for the household."

"It is just like this: When you close the saloons the money that formerly was spent there remains in the family of the wage earner, and his wife and children buy shoes and clothing and better food with it. Yes, sir, we have found in Seattle that it is better to buy shoes than booze. The families and wage earners in Seattle are going to have more food and clothes and everything else than they had before.

It Actually Prohibits.
"And is the prohibition law enforced?"
"Absolutely. Prohibition does prohibit."

"And how about the empty saloons and the landlords who own them?"
"Many of them have already been made over and are occupied by other businesses. I will venture the prophecy that in one year from today you won't be able to find a place in Seattle where there was a saloon. They will be occupied by other businesses. And prohibition has not lowered rents. I know of one big dry goods store that has already had its rent raised since prohibition went into effect."

Coast States All Will Be Dry.

"Oregon also went dry January 1. California is the only wet State left on the Pacific coast, and it will go dry January 1, 1918. And these three states will remain dry to the end of time. None of them would ever have saloons again. Those who were honestly opposed, as I was, to prohibition in Washington and Oregon, have been converted to it, as I have been, by the actual evidence that prohibition is a fine thing from a business standpoint. No city and no community, too, can afford to have saloons. They are too expensive, morally and economically. In a very few years there will not be a licensed saloon in the whole nation, and that will be a fine thing."

SUFFRAGE NEWS.

Another great Canadian province has declared in favor of votes for women. The bill to give them full suffrage has passed its second reading in the Alberta Legislature, by a sweeping majority. In Manitoba the other day the vote was unanimous and in Alberta there was only one dissenting vote.

Saskatchewan, where the legislature passed a unanimous resolution in favor of equal suffrage more than a year ago, now has a bill pending, which was introduced by the Premier, and has every prospect of passing by a triumphant majority. In the words of the Toronto Banner, "Woman suffrage seems to be sweeping the three newest Canadian provinces like a prairie fire."

In Canada, the action of the legislature is final. No referendum to the voters is required.

DR. C. C. WINGO DEAD AT 92.

Physician Was Born in Southwest Virginia, But Lived in Baltimore. (Baltimore Sun, Mar. 21.)

Falling down the steps at his home on March 10, as he was hurrying to a meeting at the Billy Sunday Tabernacle, Dr. Christopher C. Wingo, 92 years old, 2624 North Calvert street, died yesterday morning from the shock of the fall.

Previous to the accident, Dr. Wingo had enjoyed almost perfect health, the only serious illness he had experienced being before his coming to Baltimore. For a number of years and until after the death of his son, Dr. Charles E. Wingo, in December of 1914, he made his home at 228 North Green Street. Seven months ago, however, he took an apartment at the Calvert street house. While living with his son, Dr. Wingo was accustomed to taking walks through the shopping district, which is close to his home. Even when he reached the age of 90 he spent part of his birthday—December 18—in the shopping district. His ninety-first birthday was saddened by the serious illness of his son, who died two days after that date. His last birthday was passed in the apartment at 2624 North Calvert street.

Dr. Wingo was born in southwest Virginia, December 18, 1823. He often told of the visits of James Monroe through that section and he also remembered Henry Clay. His medical training he obtained according to the old system, working for several hours under a preceptor. He later attended the University of Vermont and received further instruction in the profession. At the outbreak of the civil war, Dr. Wingo was in Virginia and enlisted as a surgeon. He administered to the soldiers in the militia called from Giles and Monroe counties to oppose the invasion of southwestern Virginia shortly after the first battle of Manassas. Twenty years ago he came to this city.

Four grand children survive him. They are Dr. Charles E. Wingo, Jr.,

Rank Foolishness.
You occasionally see it stated that colds do not result from cold weather. That is rank foolishness. Were it true colds would be as prevalent in mid-summer as in midwinter. The microbe that causes colds flourishes in warm weather. To get rid of a cold take Chamberlain's cough remedy. It is effective and is highly recommended by people who have used it for many years on occasion required, and know its real value. Obtainable everywhere.

BUSTLE AND STIR.

How shall we account for the difference between conversions forty years ago and conversions today?

Forty years ago most conversions were accompanied by loud shouts, acrobatic leaping and statements of peculiar experiences and feelings, sights and sounds.

And in fact the church demanded some of these evidences before acknowledging a "sound conversion."

Today the church gladly accepts all who come upon their own statement of faith in the Lord Jesus, turning from sin and promising an obedient Christian life. Does the church ask too little today, or did it ask too much forty years ago? Forty years ago the church wanted proof of your conversion the day you were converted. Now, it says "By your fruits ye shall know them," and lets you prove it by the life you live.

As these mysterious experiences of feelings, sights and sounds seem not to have been a part of conversion, and are no longer needed to prove a conversion, we are not surprised at them being no longer used. W. E.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell."

I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.
